THE SENTINEL.

Friday, January 18, 1867.

German Schools and Schoolmasters.

The Schools throughout Germany are excellent—in some respects, the best in the world.—They are conducted with great care and under strict municipal regulations. The teachers are generally persons of superior ability and through education. The business of teaching is a profession in itself. A great feature in these schools is the amount of oral exercise thorough which the children are required to pass. No mere learning by rote is permitted.—Every study must be thoroughly understood; and however little a pupil may acquire, he must comprehend it as far as he goes. Superficial show is altogether disregarded. Until a boy is duly qualified in a primary class, he cannot enter a higher one. Great attention is bestowed upon those studies most likely to be of use to the pupil in future life, as, for example, the modern languages, mathematics, civil engineering, geography, drawing, book-keeping, natural philosophy, geology, etc. Due regard is also paid to the health of the pupil. He is required to exercise at frequent intervals; to bathe, sing, walk, and hold himself in erect position. Very little time is allowed for idle and disreputable practices. The school hours in summer are from seven in the morning till six in the evening, with an intermission of two hours for dinner; in winter from eight to seven. All the studies are performed in school, with the exception of such extra lessons in music and the languages as may be desired. In this way there is but little opportunity for street playing and rowdyism—too common a practice in our country. At schools for boys, all are considered boys, big and little, and are so treated.—Precocious young gentlemen of sixteen are regarded with special disfavor. Neatness and cleanliness in dress and person are imperatively required. These remarks will apply in general terms to schools for girls.

The relations between teachers and their pupils are of the most kindly and affectionate character. The same interchange of friendly souvenirs which so frequently takes place in families, is also a prevailing custom in this connection. Birthday and Christmas presents are made to the teachers, and on these occasions the whole school unites in doing them honor. Affectionate addresses are delivered on both sides, and there is always a very happy scene of rejoicing.

On a certain day of the year the boys are privileged to scourge their teachers with birchen switches, in satisfaction of old scores. This is a grand time, as may well be supposed. Every boy in the school comes prepared with his individual switch, which he uses with a zeal and energy that does credit to his gymnastic education. Unlucky is the pedagogue who has laid up a heavy score to his debit, for he is sure to get it with interest. There may be such a thing as a future retribution, but boys are not apt to think of that. Delighted at the opportunity afforded them by this day of unrestrained pleasure, they repair to school with their switches gaily tied up with ribbons; and after an affectionate greeting of the masters and ushers, who are especially civil on these occasions, they soon begin to lay about them with joyous shouts, and the school-room becomes a scene of uproar and frolic that baffles description. Generally the masters begs off, after a pretty lively warming, but the younger teachers are compelled to run and jump, struggle and implore, till quite exhausted. Big and little boys shower down upon their backs and shoulders a torrent of energetic blows, hold them by the skirts of the coat, out of their fortified retreats behind the desks, hop upon the benches to get effective positions, and shout with unmitigated delight when they set the unlucky pedagogues a roaring with real or imaginary pain. It is a scene of glorious and enthusiastic fun. The teachers seem to enjoy it as much as the pupils; and after it is all over, and the old scores are fully paid, hands are shaken all round, and the boys are patted on the head, and complimented for their zeal and activity in this essential branch of their education. An unreserved and affectionate relationship is thus kept up between the teachers and their pupils and I have never known it to degenerate into disrespect.

During the summer holidays, pedestrian tours are made through various parts of the country, having in view health, recreation, and instruction. Sometimes these tours extend into the mountains of Switzerland and Bavaria. The classes are accompanied by their teachers, who omit no opportunity of instilling into their minds a practical knowledge of geology, botany, entomology, and such other studies as come within the sphere of their rambles. Each boy carries with him a tin case in which to preserve the specimens picked up by the way-side. As they wander along through the most beautiful and picturesque parts of the country, they sing glees and choruses, make sketches of the old castles, or bathe in the mountain streams. They are the happiest set of beings in existence. Knowing no troubles, overflowing with health, and in full enjoyment of liberty, they present a picture of pure and perfect happiness, if such a thing can exist upon earth. Will any one pretend to say that such a life as this, innocent and refining in all its tendencies, is not infinitely better than the holiday life of our American children? Here there is no dissipation, no encouragement to evil or profligate habits, no morbid and unwholesome excitements. A love of nature in its most attractive aspects is encouraged. Not a stick, or stone, or flower on the way-side, but has its meaning. The beautiful legends of the country are the subjects of song and story. Health earned by exercise brings with it an increased capacity for study. The mind and body are refreshed, and when the holidays are over, the teachers and pupils return to their duties with clear heads and strong nerves. In this way the Germans acquire those robust constitutions which are the admiration of the world; and among our Teutonic citizens we find the best civil engineers, draughtsmen, chemists, botanists and geologists to develop the resources of our country.—J. Ross Browne.

Learned Professions vs. Labor.

Over sixty gentlemen, within the last few days, have been admitted by the Supreme Court of North Carolina to the practice of the honorable profession of the Law. Personally, we wish each of them success and distinction in the vocation which they have adopted; but we must be allowed to question the policy which induces so large a proportion of our educated and intelligent young men, under our present circumstances as a people, to seek the necessarily contracted avenues of the learned professions for at least a precarious livelihood, while so many broader and more expansive fields are spread before them. We must have lawyers, of course. No class of society is more necessary or more useful. It is from their ranks, mainly, owing to the peculiar nature of their habits and pursuits, that our leading public characters are to be drawn. And it is owing, principally, to this fact,—to the circumstance that the legal profession in this country, in the past, has been the chief avenue to political preferment,—that its ranks have been so over-crowded. But the result has been that, where one has succeeded and attained a respectable position at the bar, twenty have fallen by the way-side or loitered along in a dull obscurity.

The day of politics in the South,—by which we mean that servility to party organizations, that devotion to party names, and that avidity for office, which formerly existed amongst us,—has passed away; we hope, forever, but certainly for a long time to come. The struggle, now, is for the means of subsistence and support, and not for the empty baubles of place and preferment. The duty of the hour is the recuperation of our material fortunes and paralyzed industrial energies, and not the advancement of party chiefs or the promotion of party dogmas.—And while, as we have already observed, the professions are entitled to their fair quota of the energy and intellect of the land, it is a great error that prompts our up-rising youth to rush into them as of yore, under the delusive and ruinous idea that they offer the best chances of eminence or the fairest opportunities for a livelihood.

There are openings on all sides. The field of enterprise is limitless, and every young man can consult his peculiar aptitudes. Health, sobriety, energy and industry, are capital enough to begin the new race with, and if to these are added intelligence and education, so much the better in any department of labor. And there is not a State on earth in which well-directed labor can accomplish greater results than in North Carolina. We have the diversity of soil, the water power and the manufacturing capabilities, and the mineral wealth, to employ the best energies of millions and to build up a thriving and powerful commonwealth,—powerful in all the elements of genuine greatness.

We cannot look to professional men to make these resources available. Their development must depend on educated labor and muscle; and we hope soon to see the effete ideas of the past entirely obliterated. Let our young men be impressed with the truth that learning and knowledge can be as well applied to the cultivation of the earth as to the abstrusities of the closet or the triumphs of the forum; that the most finished education, so far from being prostituted, is rendered a double blessing, by being devoted to pursuits that are calculated to advance the industrial, moral and social interests of the country.

The time has been when common toil was sneered at by the purse-proud and the pampered. This was mean and contemptible enough in them, then, but it would be doubly despicable if such a feeling existed now, when we are all ruined utterly without a speedy and earnest resort to it. It is a sufficient answer to those who would decry the Dignity of Labor, (as has been well and eloquently remarked by a distinguished son of North Carolina,) that the great Apostle of the Gentiles was a tent-maker and the Saviour of the World the son of a carpenter.

Suffering of the People—Want of Food and Fire

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 10, 1867.

Business here has been suspended for two weeks by the unprecedentedly cold weather. We have had snow and ice for ten days, and the suffering among the poor is very great. Those who were once rich are reduced to the last extremity of human endurance. Large numbers are dependent for the necessaries of life upon the Young Men's Christian Association, and the funds of that organization giving out a few days ago, those dependent upon it were without food for two days. Others have burned their furniture to keep warm, and night before last a woman and her infant were frozen to death.

People here have now no thought of anything but how to live. Nine-tenths have no interest in what Congress does. They cannot, of course, help what is written and said by fortune hunting politicians; but if Congress knew our real state they would attend less to schemes for settling our political status and try honestly to give us a chance to keep ourselves alive and get on our feet again.

The above is from the New York Herald.—There is some truth in it, but, like most that we find in that paper, most of it is without foundation. The weather has been cold, but not unprecedentedly cold. The continuance of the sleet and snow made it unusually disagreeable. There was some suffering, but none who have been rich are reduced to the last extremity of human suffering. Our citizens relieved many through the Y. M. Christian Association. In one instance some furniture was burned. We have heard of no one, man, woman or infant, being frozen to death. The great concern of our people is to improve their material condition, yet they feel some interest in what Congress does. They desire peace and quiet, but they are not reckless enough not to care what Congress does. Nine-tenths of them do not wish Congress to destroy the government.

Supreme Court—Case of Wm. H. Hughes.

This case, which has occupied the attention of the Court for several days, is an important and interesting one, and we regret that we are not in possession of all the facts and legal points involved, in order to give the reader an intelligible idea of it. We must let rumor, or what we have heard, supply the lack.

Some months ago, a requisition was made upon Gov. Worth by Gov. Fenton, of New York, for the delivery of the body of W. H. Hughes, of Granville County, on a charge of having purchased goods of sundry parties in the city of New York upon false pretences, and absconded so that the due course of law, agreeably to the statutes of that State, could not be enforced. The officer from that State presented to Governor Worth all the papers, duly executed, necessary to sustain the requisition of Gov. Fenton. Gov. Worth, after due consideration, ordered the delivery of Mr. Hughes to the proper officer, and he was taken to New York and legally committed to prison. After a short time, we understand, Mr. Hughes, by some means, obtained bail for his appearance at court, at a given time, in the city of New York. He came to his home at Henderson, and did not answer to his bail.

Recently, Gov. Fenton made a second requisition upon Gov. Worth for his delivery. The case was fully investigated, and Gov. Worth issued the order for his re-delivery, upon which Mr. Hughes sued out the writ of habeas corpus. The case was brought before the Supreme Court, and that body rendered its decision on yesterday. The order of the Court is this: "The Court orders W. H. Hughes to be delivered, by the Marshal of the Court, to the Sheriff of Granville, to the end that he may be surrendered to James P. Bennett, Agent of the State of New York, in obedience to the warrant of the Governor."

We hope to be able to lay before our readers a correct history of this whole matter, and the opinion of the Supreme Court in the case. The course of Gov. Worth, in all this matter, has shown his great devotion to the laws and to the Constitution; and while he has exhibited a proper regard for the rights and welfare of our individual citizens, he has equally exhibited a purpose to discharge his duty fully to citizens of other States.

Citizens of North Carolina, who obey the laws and prove themselves worthy, may rely upon the protection and kind consideration of Gov. Worth, but those who are lawless, and, in the recklessness of the times, will attempt to defraud citizens of other States of their just rights, need not hope for immunity from him. The highest glory of North Carolina, and that which gives us the greatest pride, is, that her people and her merchants are just, reliable men, and will pay their honest debts, if it be possible. Nothing could sooner destroy that honorable reputation, than for the Executive and judicial officers of the State to be indifferent to the claims of the citizens of other States against our own people, by screening in any way fugitives from justice, or those people of our State who seek to commit trespasses upon those of other States, and then fly homeward for protection.

Board of Internal Improvements.

We publish, to-day, the report of the Board of Internal Improvement of the State, made to the Legislature at its recent session. Its suggestions strike us as discreet and proper.

The prosperity of the State depends much upon the efficiency and good management of the Rail Roads now in existence, and the extension of the system. Their success will depend altogether upon their control. The amount of travel and freight may be circumscribed at present, but this may be in a great measure improved by good management.

The question propounded by the Board to the Legislature, or rather its suggestion to that body, that the State should cease its appointment of Directors and place the entire management of the Roads in the hands of the individual Stockholders, we consider a good one. The State, in the nature of things, cannot be supposed to be as intensely interested in the pecuniary interest of the Roads, as private individuals. She must look to the general good, the interests which bear at all points upon her prosperity. Experience also has shown that economy is not a prime consideration, always, with those who manage State affairs. Moreover, when the selection of Directors must be made from so many, the best men for the position are not always as easily selected by the choice of one man, as by the more searching discrimination of the ballot.

Hence, for this reason, and and for the further reason that political considerations have always controlled in the selection of State managers of public works, to a greater or less extent, we believe the interest of the Roads, which certainly demand all the help they can get in their present condition, requires that their management be placed in the hands of the shrewdest, most energetic and most skillful hands the Companies can select.

The State's interest in the Roads should, however, be well guarded. Quarterly statements of the operations of all our public works, in which the State is interested, should be fairly and fully made to the Board of Internal Improvement, and it should be empowered to institute, at any time, such investigations into their affairs, as the interests of the State may demand.

We regard these Railroad interests of the State as of the highest importance. We believe, under proper management, they can be made sources of great prosperity to the State and people, and to the individual Stockholders.—This can only be done under the most skillful and judicious management, and the sooner they are so placed, the better.

Among the resolutions introduced into the House of Representatives, on Tuesday last, was one by Mr. Noell to amend the act regulating the elective franchise in the District of Columbia so as to disfranchise no person on account of sex.

For the Sentinel.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—The X. P. G. can't wait much longer. If Congress does not hurry up the cakes, there will be —— something to pay. "We tell Congress" this, and "we tell Congress" that, and "we call upon Congress" to do so and so, are pretty near played out. Congress surely does not consider how very impatient our little man with great expectations is. He sees no such difficulties as are bothering the brains of members of Congress. He has the whole plan cut and dried. All he asks is to have his Holden-Font-Pool oath inserted—in almost anything—for that is the "gist of the matter." India Rubber consciences will do the rest. His plan of "sifting the chaff from the wheat" is remarkably simple. He can do it in a twinkling.—There are to be books, and "the loyal will be put on the books, and the disloyal will be kept off the books; and no one will be allowed to vote or hold office whose name is not recorded in the books." How can anything be more simple? To be sure there might be some question as to who would keep the books and make the entries. But there shall be no trouble about that. He will keep the books himself—and he has wonderful skill at book keeping. For instance, who but he would have thought of entering 300 names on his pardon book and pronouncing them all white-washed from the crown of the head to the sole of the foot, a few days before his election (?) came off, when not a mother's son of them was pardoned? It took just 15 minutes to do it. Rather good book keeping, that! Skillfully done—eh? "Do you see it?" Why, if some such power of multiplication, or subtraction, were not allowed to the unmistakables, "the very young Confederate officer who led the troops that mobbed me in 1863 for my Unionism would proclaim me a traitor"—(horrible!)—would say that Congress had so declared me, and would distance me for office."—Horror of horrors! (Letter of W. W. Holden to the Albany Evening Journal, where he says he was 48 years old?) This is stated to be "the peculiar hardship." These young rascals "would beat ME for office, &c." Why, he really seems to think that the world, and all that it inhabit, was made for Cæsar, and that Rome's great Julius and our small X. P. G. are identically the same wonderful personage. Has he no modesty left?

The public has waited to see what he would, or could say, about this strange, contemptible letter. Two issues of the Standard have passed since it became public, and not a word yet. It was thought incredible that a letter so utterly shameless, both in fact and intention, could be genuine and really written by one who had heard it thunder 48 years. He has always had the credit of being cunning enough, though a political and personal friend of his once said, that "he worked well enough for others, but when he undertook to work for himself he was the biggest dolt in the State." Some people say the same of his present political associates, to whom he may have attached himself partly for just that reason. "A fellow-feeling makes us wondrous kind."

It was conjectured by many that the letter was got up by some mischievous school boy, who was amusing himself in the old way by pranking again with our estimable citizen. To be sure he was too shrewd to let the cat out of the bag bodily. He would have shown just the tip of her tail—and the cute Yankee Editor would have understood him like a book. But from his silence, the public must take it for granted that he wrote it. Of a truth, our small man with great expectations is sinking lower and lower every day of his life; and if a compassionate Congress does not listen to his piteous appeals for help, our Cæsar will soon be swallowed up in his own muddy waters, and when they call for him, the only answer will be a lugubrious wail from all our borders,

"The waters wild went o'er our child,

Reconstruction at the Latest Dates.

The Tribune had an article on yesterday on reconstruction, which was a curious compound of sense and folly. It justifies the rejection of the constitutional amendment by the Southern States as proceeding from generous and creditable motives, admits that the amendment is a failure, concedes that the Supreme Court is a rock on which the Republican party is likely to split if it attempts to circumnavigate the Constitution, and jumps to the conclusion that Congress must take the matter in hand and reorganize the Southern States on the basis of impartial suffrage, alike for the negroes and the rebels. We admit the premises, but question the inference. We crave to be informed whence Congress derives its authority to regulate suffrage in the States. That body can pass no such law as the Tribune proposes without an amendment to the Constitution conferring power, and thirteen States can as effectually defeat such an amendment as the one now pending.

The Tribune would seem to regard its proposal in the light of a compromise, Congress demands negro suffrage, and objects to rebel suffrage; the South grants rebel suffrage, but refuses negro suffrage; and the Tribune proposes that the differences shall be settled by conferring impartial suffrage on both. If Congress and the States concerned had co-equal jurisdiction over the subject, this might be an equitable barter; but inasmuch as Congress is destitute of all power in the premises, the proposal is futile. The Tribune is of opinion that rebel suffrage must inevitably come, in spite of all barriers erected by Congress; and negro suffrage, in spite of all opposition by the States. It therefore urges the prompt and graceful concession by both of what cannot be permanently withheld, and the avoidance of intermediate agitation. But is it not equally true that the restoration of the States must inevitably come, and that it is even more expedient to avoid the growing alienation and bad feeling occasioned by their exclusion?

If the South rejects every proffered condition of restoration other than the Constitution, it exercises an unquestionable right. But when Congress oversteps the Constitution to impose conditions, its laws will have no more binding authority than the Tribune's advice. The South is just as free to spurn one as the other. If Congress had the power claimed for it, all exhortations to the Southern people might be dispensed with, since they are powerless to resist any law which the Supreme court would enforce. But if negro suffrage cannot prevail without the consent of the South, the chances are greater than a proud high-spirited people would concede it of their own accord after re-admission, than yield it to impotent menaces which the threatener cannot make good.—N. Y. World.

IF THE PRESIDENT SHOULD BE IMPEACHED—WHAT THEN?—There seems to be a universal popular impression that if President Johnson should be impeached and deposed, the president of the Senate, who by law succeeds him, would continue to hold the place during the unexpired portion of Mr. Johnson's term. This is a mistake. The same law which designates the president of the Senate as the next in succession when the offices of President and Vice-President shall both fall vacant, provides also for an immediate presidential election to fill the two vacant offices. If President Johnson is deposed, we shall have a new presidential election this year.—New York World.

Report of the President and Directors of the Internal Improvement Board.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
OFFICE OF THE B'D OF INTER'L IMPROVEMENTS,
Raleigh, December 8th., 1866.

To the Honorable the General Assembly of North Carolina:

GENTLEMEN.—The President and Directors of the Board of Internal Improvements, during the present year, have had no funds under their control. No power of investigation into the conduct of the Public Works in which the State has an interest, is conferred on this corporation, and none of these works have declared any dividends; and we can, therefore, impart little information in relation to them, beyond what may be derived from the reports of the officers of the several companies. The Rail Road Companies at the close of the war were without money, much of their rolling stock worn out and destroyed, and many bridges and depot buildings destroyed. All of them needed many new rails and much repairing of their tracks, &c. The rapidity with which these damages have been repaired, the necessary motive power supplied, and everything done to put them in excellent condition, is not less surprising than gratifying. To accomplish these necessary objects all of them have had to contract debts; and although all of them have done a far greater business, both as to travel and freight, than could have been expected, the impoverished condition of the country being considered, none of them have overcome their debts or made a dividend.

The members of this Board made a trip through the Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal during the past Fall. Sea-going vessels, drawing six feet water, are tugged through it. It is capable of transporting, by a safe and cheap inland navigation, all the products of that fertile portion of the State bordering on Albemarle Sound and its tributaries, even if stimulated to the production (which might easily be done,) of twenty fold more than is produced now. A vessel loaded at Newbern, or at any of the towns on Albemarle or Pamlico Sound, can go, by way of this Canal, into Chesapeake Bay; from the head of this Bay, by the Delaware and Chesapeake Canal, to the Delaware River; then up Delaware River, by way of Philadelphia and Trenton, and through the Raritan Canal to New York, without going to sea. The State owns $350,000 of stock in this Canal Company. It was feared by many that this Canal would fill up. It has now been in successful operation some ten years; side-wheel steamers frequently running through it, and its use has removed all fears as to its permanency. It has one tide lock, built of hewn granite, and of ample size.

When party politics shall cool down so as to give business and enterprise a feeling of security, that fertile region will supply abundant freight, the only thing wanting, under good management, to make good dividends to the holders of the stock of this Company.

Most of the stock of this Company is held by non-residents of the State. The officers and stockholders of the Company, in an interview we had with them, expressed their readiness and entire willingness to afford every facility to the Commissioners, appointed under an ordinance of the Convention, to examine into the management of the Company. These Commissioners have not yet been able to make the investigation and report. It is recommended that you grant them further time to execute their commission.

The State owns stock in the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad to the amount of $1,066,500, and that Road owes the State a balance of about $180,000 loaned to the Company by the State and secured by mortgage. By the terms of the loan, they can make no dividend until their debt shall be paid. The Company proposes to pay off this debt in the bonds of the State, sold to raise the money loaned to them—or that the State take stock in the Company for the balance due the State. If this debt were subscribed as a stock in the Company, its present increasing business and small indebtedness give reason to hope that the Company might begin to pay dividends at an early day. We recommend that the State take stock to the amount of this debt due the State.

We have no special suggestions to make in regard to the Wilmington & Weldon, Wilmington & Manchester, and North Carolina Railroads. The reports of these Companies encourage the hope that they may be able, at no distant day, to resume the payment of dividends.

For the amount of interest held by the State, by the way of stock or mortgage, in other roads, we refer to the late Report of the Public Treasurer.

Three of these works are incomplete, and not likely to yield income to the State or other stockholders until the original designs can be accomplished; to wit: the Western North Carolina Railroad,—the Wilmington, Charlotte & Rutherford Railroad,—and the Western (Coal-fields) Railroad. The aggregate amount of the State's interest in them, by way of stock, and by way of loan or exchange of the State's bonds, is about $3,000,000. It is the manifest interest of the State at large, and especially so of the people residing near the projected routes, that they should be completed as soon as practicable. But the Board has no means of acquiring information as to the most practicable means of accomplishing the work, save what will be communicated by the reports of these corporations, and members of your body immediately representing the sections to be especially benefitted.

No reference is made to the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad, because the stock held by the State in this road has been sold under an ordinance of the late State Convention.

The Board deems it proper to submit for your consideration some suggestions of a general character, touching the interests of the State in all our Public Works.

Under existing laws, the only supervision or control which this Board can exercise over the works, in which the State is interested, is by the appointment of Directors and State proxy. If complaints be made that there is any mal-administration prejudicial to the State, the Board has no power of supervision or investigation to ascertain whether these complaints be well or ill founded. They have no power to give any instructions to the agents of the State. There is danger that in making these appointments, partizanship, which ought to have no influence, may not be ignored. When this is the case, the stability in the conduct of these works, which is essential to the success of all business operations, is liable to disturbance by the fickle mutations of partizan ascendancy. When the line of a road or canal has been located, or especially when the work shall have been completed, it is believed that the stimulus of personal interest would cause these works to be better managed, if the chief management were committed to the individual stockholders, the State retaining the power to be represented by a proxy at the meetings of the stockholders, and the power to resume the appointment of Directors, if experience shall prove that the individual stockholders take any advantage of the State. If this proxy should be appointed in reference to his fitness for the duty, and paid for his services, with ample powers of investigation, and the duty of reporting on the interest of the State in each work, it is believed that it would result in the better management of our public works. It is not perceived how the individual stockholders could manage the works so as to enure to their benefit, without, at the same time, benefitting the State; but last ingenuity should devise some mode of management, giving advantage to individual stockholders over the State, the power should be reserved to the State to fall back on her present rights, whenever the General Assembly shall deem it expedient.

We believe all these works would be better managed if the responsibility of the managers were less divided. At present, the three roads in which the State owns two-thirds of the stock, are managed, each, by twelve directors, eight being appointed by this Board, and four by the individual stockholders. It is believed they would be better managed by five than by twelve; those five being paid by the corporation a reasonable per diem and mileage, while engaged in their duties, and the right to travel free abolished.

If these suggestions should be deemed judicious, the several charters, as to the powers of the State proxy, and the scaling of votes in annual meetings, should be revised and placed on an equitable and fair basis. Under the charters of the three Railroads, in which the State owns two-thirds of the stock, the powers of the State proxy are not the same, in the proportion to the stock owned by the State. No reason is perceived why they should not be the same. In the 41st section, chapter 218, of the act of 1854, chartering the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, in which the State own two thirds of the stock, it is provided that in the annual meetings of the stockholders, "the State shall be entitled to a pro rata vote on her stock of one-third, according to the representation of individual stock in the meeting." According to the interpretation placed on this proviso, as this Board is informed, the State wields at the annual meetings but nominal influence, in a corporation in which it owns two-thirds of the stock.

It the power to appoint a single proxy, or agent, to represent the State, and to investigate and report on their management, should be conferred on the Board, they should have the power to pay such proxy a suitable compensation for his services.

Under existing charters, the State is bound, upon certain contingencies, to issue her bonds to a very large amount, in aid of the unfinished roads. In the present condition of the State's credit, they will bring, in currency, little more than half their par value; but by a fiction, long practiced and sanctioned by the General Assembly, when their market value approached near to par, they are purchased by the corporations, nominally at par, when in fact they contribute but about half their face towards accomplishing the work for which they were issued. This is a disastrous use of the State's credit. Your attention is called to this matter, in the hope that you may be able to devise some remedy for this evil.

The Revenue laws of this State, applicable to Railroads, and other public works, ought to be revised and amended.

In December of 1864, the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund submitted to the General Assembly a report touching this subject, which, owing to the impending perils of the war, did not receive mature consideration. We submit an extract from their report, as an appendix to this communication.

Geo. W. Wooten and others vs. Heirs at Law of B. F. Wooten, dec'd.	Petition for sale of Land for partition, filed December 28th, 1867.

THE SENTINEL.

Friday Evening, Jan. 18, 1867.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

STATE LIBRARIAN.—O. H. Perry, Esq., was this morning re-elected State Librarian for the ensuing year by the Supreme Court.

THE IRON FRONT to the Tucker Hall is entirely up, and presents a splendid and imposing appearance. It is the handsomest structure of the kind in the State and is a great ornament to the city.

LAST NIGHT, and to-day, have been the coldest "snap" of the season. A gentleman from the mountains, in the city, informs us that the temperature has not been so severe in that section as it is with us. There has not been near so much snow. This is unusual, but we are glad to hear it, for the sake of our legislative friends from the West, who, we had apprehended, had had a "hard time" during the recess, and might be delayed in reaching Raleigh next week.

SUPERIOR COURT PRACTICE.—The following gentlemen, in addition to those heretofore announced, have obtained license to practice in the Superior Courts, viz: Messrs. Richard H. Wynne, of Granville, and Francis O. Koonce, of Onslow.

MUNICIPAL ELECTION.—So far as we have been able to learn their names, the following gentlemen have been named in connection with the various positions to be filled at the election on Monday next:

Mayor.—Chas. B. Root and W. D. Haywood, Esqs.

Middle Ward Commissioners.—Messrs. R. H. Battle, Sr., P. F. Pescud, H. Mahler, and A. N. McKimmon.

Eastern Ward Commissioners.—Messrs. Jas. A. Moore, W. H. McKee, D. L. Royster, J. J. Overby, Eldridge Smith, and G. B. Bagwell.

Western Ward Commissioners.—Messrs. Jno. C. Palmer, Jas. D. Royster, Q. Busbee, P. Overby, A. Sorrell, A. T. Sawyer, and J. M. Betts.

Our citizens have thus ample material out of which to make good selections. The City interests demand the choice of good and safe men, and we trust that such will be chosen.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.—The adjourned session of the Legislature of this State convenes in this city, on Tuesday, the 22d. inst.

VALUABLE PUBLICATION.—We are indebted to the National Publishing Company, corner of 7th. and Main Streets, Richmond, Va., for the highly valuable work entitled:

"ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS, IN PUBLIC AND PRIVATE,—with letters and speeches before, during, and since the war. By Henry Cleveland."

It is a beautifully printed volumne of 832 pages, containing four handsome embellishments,—two excellent likenesses of Mr. Stephens, a sketch of his residence and another of the homestead burial ground. It also contains four autograph letters of Mr. Stephens and the late President Lincoln, which have a peculiar interest.

We have had no opportunity, as yet, of passing upon the merits of this biography, but as it has had the imprimatur of the distinguished subject of it, himself, it may fairly be assumed that it is every way reliable, while Mr. Cleveland's prestige as a writer is a sufficient guarantee of its literary excellence.

PERSONAL.—Col. James R. Love, the Senator from the 50th District, has arrived in this city. He has just returned from a visit North, and is hopeful of the political situation, and believes that Conservatism will ultimately triumph over Radicalism.

Col. L. is here in readiness to begin the duties of the approaching session of the General Assembly, and his constituency may well feel proud of him. He has served them faithfully and intelligently.

HEAVY BANK ROBBERY.—The National Exchange Bank missed yesterday morning checks that had been cashed the day before to the amount of $29,832.48.

The accounts were settled the evening before, and all the checks which were left on the table were placed in a drawer on the top of a sum of money and put in the vault. The next morning the checks were missing. Suspicion attaches to no one about the bank—Rich. Examiner.

Stevens said, in the House of Representatives on Tuesday:

"I deny that this government has ever been a republic. I deny that the State of Pennsylvania has ever been a republic, and I wish this Congress would take it in hand and make it a republic."

Ought not Stevens to confine his attention to Pennsylvania and get her straight before overhauling the South? Look at her last Senatorial election for example,—what could be more disloyal?

A Washington correspondent says the late decision of the Supreme Court on the Test-Oath "will undoubtedly influence the action of the Executive to some practical extent, and we may confidently expect that the South will be relieved from the alternative of having either the few small civil offices there filled by itinerant Yankees, or being deprived of mail and other facilities altogether."

The Baltimore Sun has a hopeful article to show that a current of emigration will soon be directed towards the lands of the South and that the ravages which the war has made will be obliterated within a briefer space than has been anticipated, and the population more than compensated for the diminution it has borne. "So mote it be."

SOUTHERN ORPHAN ASSOCIATION.—The sale of the tickets of this association began on yesterday, and a large number of tickets were sold. Among the purchasers was the Rt. Rev. Bishop McGill, who bought five tickets, one of which he set aside for the benefit of the association. Who will follow the liberal example of the most worthy Bishop.—Rich. Whig, 17th.

The Methodist Centenary collection now foots over $3,800,000, and it is not all in yet. It will probably reach $4,000,000. Of this sum Daniel Drew, of New York, gave $500,000; Mr. Baldwin, of Ohio, $300,000; Mr. Rich, of Boston, $75,000, and many others from $20,000 to $50,000 each.

Comparative Civilization.

The New York World of Saturday says:

The question of comparative civilization, as between North and South, is one which the Radicals are very fond of raising. The facts mentioned below may help a solution:

From the Zanesville (O.) Courier:

A man named David Moore and his wife, residents of New Lexington, Perry county, Ohio, were arrested there on Wednesday last, charged with the murder of a little bound girl, aged nine years, by whipping her in such a brutal manner as to cause her death in a few hours thereafter. It seems the child, an orphan, was bound to this Moore by the Infirmary Directors of the county, a few weeks ago, and that since then Moore and his wife have been in the habit of whipping her in an unmerciful manner.

On Thursday evening last they again beat her most brutally. Some one outside of the house counted twenty strokes of the stick and were finally made to desist by some of the neighbors interfering. On Wednesday morning the child was found dead, lying in bed; the body was still warm. A post mortem examination revealed the fact that the back of the child was beaten almost to a jelly; there was also a bruise on the left temple, just above the eye, and a cut or bruise on the right thigh, near the groin, as if made by a stick; also inflammation of the bowels. Moore and his wife were at once taken into custody, and on Friday they were having a preliminary examination before Squire Fagley, which had not reached a conclusion last evening. A disposition was evinced among some of the citizens to lynch Moore.

Harwich Telegram to the Associated Press, Jan. 10.

There is much excitement to-day over the discovery of the fact that a spiritualist, named Charles Williams, had nearly starved his daughter, aged thirteen, by giving her only one bowl of gruel per day for three weeks, and for forty days she had nothing to eat or drink. The girl had been kept in close confinement in her room. In attempting to let herself down from the third story she fell, and was somewhat hurt, when the facts were discovered. Some selectmen took charge of the girl, whose recovery is doubtful.

From the Statesville American.

Mars Drake:—Will you allow a colored man to spress hisself in de 'Mericus pon a ticular subject, what concarns de black peoples of Nort Carlina? Well, Mars Drake, in de 'Mericus ob last week, which one ob my colored frens takes, is stated dat Billy Holden had turned raal black nigger, an dat he was no more white man, and dat he changed he skin to de color ob he heart, black—for de purpose ob getting we niggers to wote for him for Gubornor or some udder high offis, and he make a mity big fuss 'bout what he gwine to do for us black peoples, mor'in I hab time to rite, cept dat he lub us so well he is willing to sleep and eat wid us, wash our feets, clean mud off our shoes, and kiss all de black gals bout Raleigh. But we black peoples knows Billy Holden's hypocriticy, if we is not got much larnin. We knows dat he was riginal secesh, and broke de Union, and caused de war, and den sneaked to a secure place whar de bullets could not find him. We knows dat he betray everybody what hab anyting to do wid him, and darefore nigger don't truss him if he is turn black man. Golly, no! Old marster used to take de Standard what's printed by dis Billy Holden, and read to us, O so much buse ob de great Whig mens—mars Clay, mars Graham, mars Vance and udders—claring dem Abolitioners and all dat sort of ting, dat dey wanted to set de nigger free, and war acting in consart wid Giddens, Banks, and de Boston Post and all de udder ablitionist. And dat he—dis same Billy Holden, was in fabor ob slavery now and toreber. Yes, we knows all dis to be de truf. Truss him—wote for him—no! Las' year, he pretend to be a fren to mars President Johnson—now, whar is he? We niggers are willin to trus raal nigger, but not Billy Holden nigger.

P. S.—Since de bove was rit, dis man Billy Holden has bin sendin up de country to de genuine niggers, partitions for de black man and de poor white men to assign asking Corngras to enfrankincense* we blackmen, bekase we is loyal to de guberament, and den we shall wote in re-destructing de State constitution and restore de Union, which he, in de conwention, 20th. May, 1861, hiself, pledged de "las man and de last dollar" to destroy. Well, may be, some niggers fool enough to sign de partition, but I is not—I want nuthin to do wid Billy Holden or his partishun; and what I do, I adwise all to do, likewise. What fur does Billy Holden want to jine our 'sciety—why him turn nigger so late? Ah, mars Drake, its bekase he templates mischief, and no good, to de black man, and I haint got no use for him. Dats truf.

New Publications.

We are indebted to the publishers, E. H. Butler & Co., of Philadelphia, for a copy of their "Grammar of the Latin Language," School Edition, by William Bingham, A. M., of North Carolina. The study of the grammatical construction of a language with the aid of the books now in use is generally dry and uninteresting to every beginner. He is obliged to memorize much without perceiving the bearing which the tedious details can have upon his ultimate success. It is the object of the work before us to remedy many of these deficiencies. Mr. Bingham not only states bald facts and laws, but gives also the philosophical principles upon which they are based. He accompanies his rules ab initio from the first few pages with abundent and comprehensible examples illustrative of them. In order to attain this object he has been obliged to change the usual order of the school books. He gives first the substantives, then the verbs with their conjugations, and afterwards proceeds to adjectives, pronouns, irregular verbs, adverbs, &c. This plan encourages the scholar by enabling him to see that he is progressing daily in knowledge of the language. If this were the only improvement, Mr. Bingham would deserve the thanks of every student of the classics. But Mr. Bingham, after a careful examination of all the best German, English and American authorities, has adopted all their excellencies and embodied them in his work. We do but an act of simple justice to him in commending this "First book in Latin" to the notice of teachers, and hope in due time to welcome the book which he promises to prepare on the subject of Latin composition.—Philadelphia Age.

WILLIAM AND MARY COLLEGE.—This venerable institution, the Alma Mater of many of our most distinguished citizens, is financially embarrassed, and appeals to the General Assembly of Virginia for relief.

The carrying of the mails between Norfolk, Philadelphia and New York, by the Annamessix route, has been authorized by the Postmaster General.

The bill for setting aside the late municipal election in Baltimore, by holding another on the first Wednesday in February next, will undoubtedly become a law.

It is believed that the emigration to America from Ireland and the Continent, this spring and summer, will be the greatest on record.

The Governors shall be chosen from loyal citizens over 25 years of age, and who did not sign any secession ordinance, and who have not held office of any kind under the Confederate government. The Governor and legislative council, thus selected, shall have absolute control of the government, and have power to pass all laws, &c. All laws of legislative bodies since the adoption of the secession ordinances are abrogated. The Provisional government shall exist until a Convention of loyalists, elected without distinction of color as to voters, excluding, however, leading rebels, shall adopt a Republican Constitution, acceptable to Congress. RAW BONE SUPER-PHOSPHATE OF LIME.

Manufactured under the formula originated in 1854 and patented by

BAUGH & SONS,

SOLE PROPRIETORS, AT THE

Delaware River Chemical Works,

PHILADELPHIA, U. S. A.

This old established MANURE is manufactured from Bones that have not been burned or steamed, and it contains all their original organic matter. It is active in its operation, and is a fertilizer of great durability. It does not exhaust the soil like Peruvian Guano, but on the contrary permanently improves it.

Previous to 1861 it was introduced into the Southern States to considerable extent, and again in 1865, where it has been used with remarkable success upon Cotton, Corn, Tobacco, and all Crops.

A trial will convince any planter of its merits. Pamphlets containing well-known Southern evidence furnished upon application to New York or Philadelphia offices.

W. L. ALEXANDER, QUITMAN, TEXAS,

Attorney-at Law, and Real Estate Agent

For the Purchase and Sale of improved and unimproved Real Estate—perfecting Titles—payment of Taxes, and furnishing such information as may be obtained from Public Records or other sources.

Having traveled extensively in Texas during the last five years, and by close observation having become thoroughly acquainted with the intrinsic value of Lands in Eastern and Middle Texas, I with confidence offer my services to the Public, feeling sure of giving satisfaction.

Now is the most propitious time for those desirous of securing homes in Texas. The best Lands can be bought at astonishingly low rates. We offer improved, and unimproved Lands, situated in the timbered or prairie country. Don't delay till the price of Lands becomes high,—and until the farseeing and enterprising have secured all the best, as regards fertility, convenience to market, abundance of good water and healthful locality.

My fees are moderate, and in proportion to the work required of me.
